Because Black Lives Matter

Inclusive Excellence and Diversity Education (IEDE) stands in solidarity with Black people and pro-Black protestors in the fight for racial justice. We admonish and lament the continuation of anti-Black violence and the structural disregard for Black life in the United States and across the globe.

Our office takes seriously the charge to serve as a centralized educational unit for expanding diversity, equity, and inclusion initiatives for the University of Kentucky. To support those efforts, we offer the following resources for those who seek more engagement around anti-racism and building anti-racist practices.

The UK Counseling Center has provided a list of resources for learning more about anti-black racism, healing from racial trauma, and deepening allyship.

Be sure to visit our social media accounts (@ukyiede - linked above) as we will continue to share relevant information and firmly proclaim that Black lives matter.

In Solidarity.
